We went to Versailles this morning, taking the children and dogs.

Elsa Maxwell, Hedda Hopper, Jerome Zerbe and Marie Louise Bousquet came for lunch. The two rival lady columnists, who have known each other a long time, evidently dislike each other with quite bitter intensity.

Jerome sketched out another arrangement for landscaping and between himself and Tvede the alterations that might be effected at the Pavillon would, if carried out, be quite startling. However, I think either one represents an improvement on what is now there.
